

Trace Trylko – Series Host & Producer

Since October 2011, Trace Trylko has served as the first-ever executive director of St. Vincent de Paul Orlando.

The nonprofit Society of St. Vincent de Paul is a Catholic organization that serves the needy and less fortunate across Central Florida.

Trace came to the position following careers in broadcast journalism and marketing. A University of Central Florida graduate, Trace worked as an associate producer at WESH Channel 2 in Orlando before stints in Gainesville, Florida and Huntsville, Alabama as a reporter and news anchor.

Following a career in TV news, Trace went into marketing as an account manager and marketing director before responding to a higher calling to get involved with nonprofit work.

Trace belongs to All Souls Catholic Church in Sanford, Florida and is a member of the parish's St. Vincent de Paul Conference.

In his free time, Trace swims regularly and bleeds black and gold for his alma mater, the UCF Knights, and co-hosts Knightline, a UCF-themed sports podcast.